

Artists Share Advice to Inspire You in 2018

ARTS & CULTURE

suzannah weiss | DECEMBER 28, 2017

image: istockphoto.com/loonara

Patrisa Tomassini, violinist, lead of Quartetto Tomassini

“Traveling is what recharges me. I draw creativity from the beautiful people around me and reading. I especially love going on cruises as I don’t have to think much about the mundane; I just show up and all is done for me. Spending endless hours staring at the open sea is a great way to relax and recharge, which can spark creativity.”

Lorenza Ponce, violinist, Quartetto Tomassini

“When I’m not performing, I go to my farm in Maryland and recharge myself and spark my creativity by immersing myself in nature. I am a beekeeper. This hobby takes me out of my own head and connects me to the larger picture: the inherent beauty of our planet. Music is a part of that.”